Here, 20 students from the VCA School of Art have volunteered to take part in a project that reprises 'The Grid Show, A Structured Space', coordinated by the George Paton Gallery's first director Kiffy Rubbo in August 1975. The premise for that exhibition was to divide the gallery into 20 gridded spaces for invited artists to utilise as they wished. The same premise applies to the forthcoming exhibition; 20 gridded cubes, approximately 2 metres square have been randomly allocated to participants to explore possibilities within defined spatial limits.
