

show up to your funeral like (diamond emoji) Sophie Cassar

ENTRANCE GALLERY

show up to your funeral like (diamond emoji) is a collection of work that attempts to construct or define a contemporary image of death within the aesthetic of sick-girls-online, through self representation of illness. The sick girl places a pastel sick wash over everything to digitally desensitise the viewer to the death at the core of the image. The work responds to feminist disability theory through rejecting traditional feminine "sick-role" stereotypes, instead proposing disability as accessory - a signifier of a constructed subculture that exists within digital contexts.
